What you’ll receive

Career Coaching
- Up to four hours of interactive one-on-one sessions with an expert career coach
- Guidance while you determine your best fit option (grow in place, grow in function, change jobs or change industries)
- Support in developing a career action plan

Career Essential Skills
- Create a “beat the competition” résumé
- Exposure to high-yield job search strategies
- Training in effective negotiation techniques designed to maximize your earning potential

Award-Winning Digital Resources
- Access to RightEverywhere® and RightCareer™, websites that provide you with information and expert personalized guidance
- Assistance with building a personal website using Workfolio™
- Access to company research databases including OneSource® and CareerSearch®

IView® Interviewing
- Exposure to effective interviewing skills using customized interview simulations
- Develop individualized video presentations that you can send to targeted employers

Networking
- Access to Right Management’s LinkedIn groups, including more than 8,000 active members throughout the world and across industries
- Exposure to new job opportunities through Right Management’s Global Job Bank at the completion of the program

Whether you’re looking for your first job, a career change, or want to position yourself for promotion within your current organization, the Walker Career Management Program will help you take charge of your career.

How to get started

1. Learn more
   Read about Webster University’s Career Management benefits for graduate students at grad.webster.edu.

2. Register
   Enroll in Webster’s Career Management class: WSBT 5000: Career Success for the 21st Century

3. Take advantage of new resources
   After completing the course receive access to 12 months of Right Management’s suite of career resources and services, compliments of Webster University.
How is the program offered?
All students seeking a degree in the Walker School must enroll in WSBT 5000: Career Success in the 21st Century, a nine-week online course on Career Management. After completing the course, students are given 12 months of access to Right Management’s services and resources, including one-on-one coaching, compliments of Webster University.

Who is Right Management?
A global leader in talent and career counseling, Right Management (a subsidiary of Manpower-Group) has more than 30 years of experience supporting professionals in all industries across the globe.

Will I work with a career coach who understands my current industry?
Yes. Right Management’s career coaches have experience supporting professionals across all industries and across all levels of an organization. The coaches and the program’s materials will help you research and navigate your industry.

My experience is in the military. Will this program help me transition into a civilian job?
Yes. Right Management has a long history of assisting military personnel make a transition into the corporate world. Your service to our country provided you with strong skills that companies today need. Under the guidance of a career coach, you’ll learn how to translate the experience and skills gained through your graduate degree program into materials and messages that will enable you to secure your next role.

How can Career Management help me apply my education experience after graduation?
Together with your graduate degree, Right Management can help turn the results you’ve produced during your career into selling points for a new job. The coaches and resources available enable you to translate your experience to your résumé so that potential employers see how you can add value to their organizations.

I am getting an advanced degree to help me grow within my organization. Since I’m not searching for a new job, why should I participate in this program?
Effective career management is a fluid, on-going process, and this program provides you with the opportunity to work with an experienced career coach to map out your immediate and long-term career goals. Once you have a career action plan, you will be better positioned to take control of your career and achieve those goals.